DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takahashi (5960023) in view of Suzuki et al. (5347546) and/or Nakajima et al. (5412496). Takahashi teaches a semiconductor laser device Figs. 1 and 6 comprising a semiconductor substrate of a first conductivity type 101; a first cladding layer 102 of the first conductivity type disposed on the semiconductor substrate 101; an active layer 103 disposed on the first cladding layer 102 and having uniformly flat upper and lower boundary surfaces in an optical waveguide direction; a second cladding layer 109 of a second conductivity type disposed on the active layer 103; and a diffraction grating layer 107,607 having a phase-shifted structure 100a,600a in the optical waveguide direction, between the active layer 103 and one of the first 102 and second 109 cladding layers. Takahashi fails to teach the length (L) of the diffraction grating layer in the optical waveguide direction, the mean coupling factor (K) of a diffraction grating layer and that the product of KL satisfies $5.6 > KL > 3.0$. Suzuki et al. see col. 9, lines 50-60 and

Art Unit: 2828

Nakajima et al. see col. 3, lines 44-47 both teach that it is desirable for the product of KL to fall within the given range; therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to select the desired properties of elements within the invention on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Also, since Takahashi teaches each and every structural element of the present invention, it has been held “[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation.” In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955).

Regarding claims 2-8, it has been held that “[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation.” In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955).

Regarding claims 9-16, Takahashi teaches the semiconductor laser device has a highly-refractive portion 100a and 600a of the diffraction grating layer has a length longer than that of a low-refractive portion of the diffraction grating layer in the optical waveguide direction.
